Effectiveness

In a fraction of a second, Katharion scans incoming messages using both traditional and cutting-edge technologies to detect continually evolving junk mail. This includes a variety of message authenticity checks; sophisticated optical character recognition software; message fingerprint analysis; an extensive heuristic rule set; frequently-updated databases of mail servers, network addresses, URLs, and other identifying elements known to be used in junk email; domain history and reputation; and customizable domain-specific and user-specific whitelists and blacklists.

The result is a dramatic reduction in junk email – typically upwards of 98% – relieving a significant burden for email users and system administrators.

With Katharion's managed services, customers do not have to install or manage any hardware or software – saving time and hassle for network administrators. End users benefit from a system that requires little or no maintenance and that offers innovative features including “one-click whitelisting” and optional daily message digests.
